

Poems begin with the eyes, the ears, the hands, and the heart. Poets don't wait for inspiration; they find inspiration through their explorations of the world around them.

JANUARY HIGH SCHOOL WORKSHOPS

COLLECTING & MAPPING THE SUN

A ZINE-MAKING SERIES

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 14
2-4 P.M.

What: During our first January workshop, you will work with professional artist Sara Mumolo and explore the sun and shadows both outside and inside, gathering your observations in words and photographs. These raw observations will then become material for poetry. Throughout this January series you will use your creations to make a personal zine (a small magazine of self-published original work)!

Where: Edwin Brown Education Center (850 W Antler Ave., Redmond, OR 97756)

SATURDAY, JANUARY 23
NOON-4 P.M.

What: Create a map that illustrates your personal observations instead of geography. We will work with professional artist Ryan Pierce and map sensory information, paying special attention to sunlight, plants, the ground, shadows, and other sights, smells, and textures.

Where: Caldera Arts Center (31500 Blue Lake Dr., Sisters, OR 97759)

SATURDAY, JANUARY 30
NOON-4 P.M.

What: Share your zine or other creations with the public alongside professional visual, literary, and performing Artists in Residence who will share the work they created during monthlong stays at Caldera's Arts Center.

Where: Caldera Arts Center (31500 Blue Lake Dr., Sisters, OR 97759)
